Student Testimonial

Average of Number of Rounds

Company Size VS Rounds of Interview

Getting placed in a large firm was a rigorous process. On average, we had to go through 3-4 rounds, where not only our technical knowledge but also our behavioral and soft skills were tested thoroughly. The emphasis on cultural fit and problem-solving made the process more extensive.

On the other hand, students placed in smaller companies observed that the focus was primarily on technical skills, with fewer interview rounds compared to larger firms. The hiring process was more direct, with less emphasis on behavioral aspects but a strong assessment of domain expertise.

Celebrating Our Placement Success

80% of students secured jobs, 7.5% opted for higher studies, and 12.5% are still exploring opportunities. Uber offered the highest package of 18 LPA (ENTC & CS), while IBM offered 13.5 LPA (IT). Top recruiters across tech, consulting, and core engineering participated, with mass recruiters ensuring broad placement coverage.

This success reflects our students' dedication and the T&P Cell's efforts in fostering industry connections.

Congratulations to all, and best wishes for future endeavors!
